"Santa Fe Mountains Landscape Resiliency Project"

Hello,

I am writing to urge that you cease doing prescribed burns of our forests. The dropping of poisonous chemicals to start fires that often burn out of control is not the method for best forest management. We must begin to build resiliency in the current times of global warming and climate disruption. This means protecting homes directly near the home site. But do not burn the forests. If a forest fire starts naturally we will be able to mitigate it but no added fires are needed and they actually worsen the climate strife.

Thank you for your time and the opportunity to encourage your wiser actions.

Sincerely,

Melanie West
