Santa Fe Mountains Landscape Resiliency Project

As a citizen of Santa Fe, I would like to comment on the Forest Service plan to drastically thin 1,800 acres in the Hyde Memorial State Park and Pacheco Canyon areas beginning in October. The comments also refer to future plans to thin thousands of acres in the Sangre de Christos mountains. I understand that all of this is to be done without an environmental impact study!

I am strongly opposed to these actions. An environmental impact study must be done. Further, the analysis must be site specific to be meaningful.

Please do not proceed as planned! It will be bad for the citizens of the area and for the USFS.
