Dear Folks,

Thanks for considering my comments. Primarily, I would like to encourage a full EIS be conducted due to the scale of this project.

In today's world of climate destabilization, carbon release concerns trump all other factors. The current plan fails entirely to consider this issue, and is therefore inadequate.

I write this as a former forest fire fighter who knows first hand these forests will burn. We now live in a different world than even five years ago.... I am not convinced the current plan reflects the latest science and thinking, even though it clearly reflects my own thinking up until the last couple of years.

Our forests are in trouble and there is no good solution, short of an National 'Moon shot' CCC kind of effort. Let's slow down and allow for more public input and education... and more input from the latest climate science. What we thought to be ideal forests even 5 years ago may no long be so.

Thanks for considering these perspectives.
